BBC CLIMATE CHANGE SPECIAL LIVE BROADCAST FROM THE SAN FRANCISCO FILM CENTRE

Saturday, November 3 at 11:00am

SAN FRANCISCO, October 31, 2007 – KQED Public Radio, in partnership with Public Radio International and KALW, invites you to a special weekend broadcast of World Have Your Say. Broadcasting for the first time from the Presidio in San Francisco, the program focuses on the critical issue of climate change.

World Have Your Say is a live global interactive call-in program on radio and online, with listeners posting questions, ideas, and feedback on-line prior to, during and following the on-air broadcast. It invites World Service listeners and BBC online users to share their views and questions on key issues with a worldwide audience. The program often will feature leading global figures, experts and correspondents who are invited to take questions and comments from the audience, and with them participate in conversations in the key topics and issues of that day's particular program. The show can be accessed at <http://www.bbc.co.uk/blogs/worldhaveyoursay/>.
