KQED Public Radio’s Program
HEALTH DIALOGUES
Looks at Kids’ Health

WHAT: Health Dialogues (www.healthdialogues.org), a special monthly report airing as part of KQED’s statewide news program The California Report and hosted by Rachael Myrow, engages listeners in an on-going discussion of California health care issues that are crucial to the state’s under-served population.

JANUARY TOPIC: Kids’ Health

Early interventions give kids a head start on good health. For example, research shows that breastfeeding may reduce disease and obesity in children. Join the January edition of Health Dialogues as it explores programs that encourage breastfeeding, better nutrition for infants and young children, vaccinations, better communication – everything aimed at giving kids a healthier start in life. Visit www.healthdialogues.org for more information and a chance to be a part of the dialogue with an online discussion board, a photo slideshow, and graphics displaying data on the health of California’s children.

WHEN: On KQED Public Radio 88.5FM San Francisco, 89.3FM Sacramento, Thursday, January 22 at 8pm, repeat broadcast Saturday, January 24 at 2pm and on various public radio stations throughout the state:

The California Endowment, through KQED Public Radio, has provided funding to partner public radio stations around the state to produce their own complementary local news stories, public affairs programming and outreach efforts in conjunction with the statewide broadcast program. You can find more information about Health Dialogues at <http://www.kqed.org/healthdialogues>.

The California Report series Health Dialogues is made possible in part by a grant from The California Endowment, a private, statewide health foundation. The mission of The California Endowment is to expand access to affordable, quality health care for under-served individuals and communities and to promote fundamental improvements in the health status of all Californians. More information is available at their Web site, www.calendow.org.
